PHILADELPHIA – George Soros has been arrested, and is currently in federal custody in Philadelphia. According to what appears to be a recently unsealed indictment filed in the West District of Pennsylvania, Soros committed a slew of serious crimes prior to the US election. The document originally appeared on a variety of lesser-known Darknet websites, before being shared widely on the open net, and eventually Twitter and Facebook. The indictment focuses only on the criminal activity Soros allegedly participated in prior to the election, such as wire fraud, identity theft, and damage to computers. None of these claims have been proven in court, and Soros is believed innocent until proven guilty.

Some social media users have speculated Soros' alleged arrest was due to the investigation currently being conducted by Kean Bexte of Rebel News. Bexte's investigative reports spread to Trump's former lawyer Sidney Powell, as she cited Rebel News' evidence in a recent press conference.

Powell has also alluded to possible military intelligence involvement in the recent election, and cited the use of Dominion Voting Software in Venezuela. Rudy Giuliani corroborated Powell's claims in a recent video. Giuliani notes how Soros funds the Democrats and Antifa. Some have speculated this may have been the trigger for his recent arrest – links to the violent riots and to threats by Antifa leaders.

The Indictment

Copies of the alleged indictment have been circulating online since late last night, when the arrest allegedly occurred. Some "fact-checkers" have speculated that the document is not real, while many others have attested to its validity. The first known publication of this document in a news story was on Your News Wire, a reliable conservative publication.

An FBI source stated that the indictment will likely be updated to reflect election interference charges in relation to Dominion Voting, once the full scale of Soros' operations is known. Soros is currently being interrogated by the FBI. It also notable that the judge put a gag order on Soros' arrest, however, those laws don't apply to Canadian Media – like the Conservative Beaver.

Rebel News – a renowned alternative media outlet – previously reported on the connection between George Soros, the Tides Foundation, and Dominion Voting. According to reporter Kean Bexte, Dominion Voting has come under fire after their vote tabulation machines created a 6,000 vote swing in a single Michigan state county. The same machines and software were used in every single county in Georgia and in several other swing states that just sent their electoral votes to Joe Biden (for now). Bexte has provided evidence that suggests George Soros may have had a bigger role in the election than previously thought. Rebel News owner Ezra Levant has stated to Conservative Beaver staff that the documents look real, and his company will be running a similar story in the new future.

Canadian Connection?

The FBI source indicated that the service is aware of Soros' operations in Canada, and Canadian Police have executed a search warrant on Soros' home and offices in Toronto. Some have speculated Soros may have rigged Canada's recent election in Trudeau's favour. When asked for a statement, Soros' lawyer did not provide an immediate response. The investigation continues.

Multiple allegations of Voter Fraud

Allegations of Voter Fraud, specifically those involving George Soros and companies he controls, are being pushed by Republicans all over the United States, as well as Conservative commentators and politicians in Canada. Most of the claims refer to suspicious glitches due to "rigged" voting software, specifically, glitches that may have lead to a Biden victory in some states.

Despite desperate attempts to label OAN's reporting as false, Chanel Rion has provided convincing evidence of Voter Fraud and stands by her claims. Rion is also investigating the Soros' case with her team at OANN. Her work is so influential, President Trump shared it on his YouTube and Twitter page.

Reliable journalists from One America News continue to investigate Soros' links to Dominion Voting. A recent news story delves further into the topic.

Internet Sleuths

Internet sleuths and low to mid-level YouTubers continue digging through the internet and Darknet, to find additional clues. Many social media users have stated they believe the evidence to be solid, with a small minority wanting further evidence before "celebrating". CHN3 shared his thoughts on the exclusive from Your News Wire, which was later shared to at least 2 conservative media outlets, adding that he believes the story is real. CHN3 cites Alex Jones, a "conspiracy theorist" or truth seeker (depending on who you ask) as another potential source for information around Soros' arrest. Alex Jones has analyzed and speculated on the alleged crimes of George Soros many times in his live videos, as well as in articles published on his site Infowars. Despite being blacklisted by Big Tech, his site is still incredibly popular and influential. His work continues to appear on Twitter, YouTube, and Facebook. Although, they are posted by fans, and not Jones himself. Alex Jones has stated many times he believes the election was rigged, even going as far as attending a rally in Georgia for a cause named "Stop the Steal". He often publishes daily articles on claims of voter fraud, as well as foreign interference from Soros.

Nick Fuentes – a Twitter influencer and "role model" for members of the alt-right, has echoed claims of Voter Fraud and has publicly announced his disdain for George Soros. Many of his supporters – the Groyper – continue to scour the internet for evidence confirming Soros' guilt, and confirming Soros alleged interference in the 2020 election.

Bits and pieces of evidence continue to leak and are slowly making their way to alternative / conservative media sites – like Breitbart and NewsMax.
